

I2UD THE INSTITUTE FOR INTERNATIONAL URBAN DEVELOPMENT

Coming soon!

I2UD PHOTOGRAPHY COLLECTION

Fifteen photo galleries of project sites, spanning geography from Cairo, Egypt, to Caracas, Venezuela, depicting historic urban sites & housing communities, 1970s-2000s

THE I2UD DOCUMENT LIBRARY

Browse our new digital Collections!

SCAN ME

OUR PRINCIPLES

COLLABORATE

We never assume we have the answers. I2UD works with partners and key stakeholders to find solutions that work for them.

I2UD brings together communities, governments, and development organizations to integrate urban planning and management into their programs and encourage less powerful local actors to have a voice. We use these experiences to contribute to international networks to strengthen the urban policy agenda.

EDUCATE

I2UD provides academic consulting and training on city management to communities and local governments.

Our education activities help communities and governments to better manage how they shape their growth and deliver important services. I2UD brings together experienced urban development educators that integrate training and mentoring into their work and also offer tailored executive training courses.

PLAN

We develop urban and regional strategies that local authorities can implement.

I2UD's unique approach builds a bridge across policy, research and practice to manage and guide sustainable urbanization practices. Our emphasis on participatory, implementation-oriented strategies enables local authorities to analyze, visualize and present strategies and plans ranging from community action plans to strategic regional plans.

SUSTAIN

Our work addresses the cultural, financial, and environmental sustainability of cities.

When development pressures threaten the integrity of a city's architectural and cultural heritage, we develop management strategies to revitalize and preserve historic sites while continuing to support urban development. We also strive to enhance the resilience of urban communities, particularly in low-income neighborhoods, as they confront diverse climate change challenges.

I2UD Document Library & Photograph Collection

Explore our new Digital Collections!

SCAN ME

We encourage sustainable urban development across the international community through our digital resources:

ABOUT US

The Institute for International Urban Development (I2UD) is a global leader in identifying urban trends and developing solutions to new challenges is to formulate sustainable urban and regional development strategies with local governments and communities building upon their unique cultural and social assets.

Our Mission

I2UD is a non-profit organization specializing in urban planning for issues of:

- ◀ Climate change adaptation
- ◀ Historic preservation
- ◀ Municipal management & finance
- ◀ Regional & cross-border cooperation
- ◀ Access to land, housing & services for low-income communities, globally

WELCOME

to the I2UD
Library

SCAN ME

Coming soon!

I2UD // Photography Galleries

Fifteen photography galleries of project sites. Geography from Cairo, Egypt, to Caracas, Venezuela, showing historic sites & urban housing communities, 1977-1999.

MSDA // Galleries

Photography galleries, featuring the digitized slide collection of Dr. Mona Serageldin.

Visual documentation of historic city districts and urban fringe settlements around the globe, 1970-2000s.

MSDA // Documents

A new scholarly archive featuring urban development work led or created by Dr. Mona Serageldin.

Reports, assessments, urban evaluations, academic and research materials, presentation slides and notes, maps and graphics, 1984-2013.

ABOUT US

I2UD is a non-profit organization specializing in urban planning for issues of:

- ◀ Climate change adaptation
- ◀ Historic preservation
- ◀ Municipal management & finance
- ◀ Regional & cross-border cooperation
- ◀ Access to land, housing & services for low-income communities, globally